

What do young lesbian and bisexual women want and need?

The Proud Trust and Young Women's Health Project are recognising International Women's Day 2017 with an event bringing together young lesbian and bisexual women aged 14-25 alongside women professionals and decisions makers. This event is organised in collaboration with the Sylvia Pankhurst Gender Research Centre who are hosting the evening.

Influential women and women leaders are invited to attend the event which will offer an opportunity to engage with young Lesbian and Bisexual women directly to help bring about local change in Manchester.

When: Thursday 9th March 2017 4:30-7:30pm

Where: The Ormond Building Council Chamber, Manchester Metropolitan University, All Saints Campus, M15 (Entrance off Lower Ormond Street)

What the event will offer:

- ★ An educational, open and safe space for women who love women and other women allies
- ★ Learning around specific health needs of lesbian and bisexual women
- ★ Guidance on how to make your own work or service more inclusive of young lesbian and bisexual women
- ★ Information to feed into financial decision making in the city around inclusion, health and youth and other agendas
- ★ Free health resources to use in work with young people developed by young lesbian and bisexual women
- ★ An accessible intergenerational space for both young lesbian and bisexual and women leaders to collaborate and exchange thoughts and experiences

The event will comprise a range of different activities and inputs including

Political cake decorating
Quizzes
Living libraries
Research presentation
Discussion groups
Refreshments

Contact
myrtle.finley@theproudtrust.org to book a place